Old Standards Insufficient

NEWS REPORTS show that industrial Amerca is operating at a higher rate than since the 1929 level. This is gratifying, indeed, but no one should assume that everything is all We shall have to go much beyond the old prosperity level in order to solve the great problem f unemployment we have had for a decade. the reason is that the nation has increased its population from eight to ten millions since he fact that more industrial goods were turned out in October of this year than in any October since that month ten years ago when the boom of the 1920's blew up to become the depression

The prospect is that even more goods will be turned out in November and in December.

By old standards these should be boom times

A measuring rod of those standards is pro A measuring rod of those standards is pro-vided by the Federal Reserve Board's index of ndustrial production. This index-accepted as a measure of business well-being—is a composite of the operating rate of major industries. It is rased upon the average of the 1923-25 level of British are bearing up very bravely under this of the Automobile Association in

The FRB index provides a measure of the swing in activity during the last ten years. Shown is the fact that in 1929 the average rate of industrial production was 119 per cent of the 1923-25 rate. By October, 1932, three years later, that average had fallen to sixty-six per cent of the base rate. One year ago in October the average was ninety-six per cent. Today the rate of industrial activity is 120 per cent of 1923-25.

In spite of the improvement now registered, it can be seen that there will be continued disbursements for relief and continued operation of the WPA projects. Wherefore, the problem sent being referred to as a member of that older is not by any means solved, and as Alfred M. generation that is accused of responsibility for the Landon has so clearly pointed out, this great home tragedy is one demanding our most earnest attention. We do not yet have prosperity in spite of the fact that much of the industrial slack has been taken up, and we must all strive to bring it back as soon as possible.

Battle Looms on Trade Pacts

WORD from Washington reveals that a group of bi-partisan senators has organized to right the New Deal-Hull Reciprocal Trade Agreements program from both an economic and legal standpoint with the likelihood that the supreme court will be asked to pass upon the constitutionality of the act. Republican Governor Wiliam H. Vanderbilt, of Rhode Island, has taken the lead in the effort to sue for the court test with the possibility that he will be joined by the states of Minnesota and Kansas.

The crux of the argument is whether or not executive agreements such as trade agree- ME when they accuse the o. g. of criminal responments require Senate ratification, as is the case sibility for their very real troubles and menaces . with treaties with foreign powers.

At the present time agreements are in operation with some twenty-one countries and negotiations are under way with sixteen more. The administration is expected to wage a vigorous fight for continuance of the program, which President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull regard as the keystone of their "good neighbor" program.

Old Standards Insufficient

NEWS REPORTS show that industrial Amerca is operating at a higher rate than since the 1929 level. This is gratifying, indeed, but no one should assume that everything is all hunky dory because that rate has been reached. We shall have to go much beyond the old prosperity level in order to solve the great problem of unemployment we have had for a decade. the reason is that the nation has increased its population from eight to ten millions since

The United States News calls attention to he fact that more industrial goods were turned out in October of this year than in any October since that month ten years ago when the boom of the 1920's blew up to become the depression of the 1930's.

The prospect is that even more goods will be turned out in November and in December, 1939, than have been turned out by industry in October. By old standards these should be boom times

A measuring rod of those standards is provided by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production. This index-accepted as a measure of business well-being-is a composite of the operating rate of major industries. It is rased upon the average of the 1923-25 level of activity as 100. The FRB index provides a measure of the swing in activity during the last ten years. Shown is the fact that in 1929 the average rate of industrial production was 119 per cent of the 1923-25 rate. By October, 1932, three years later, that average had fallen to sixty-six per cent of the base rate. One year ago in October the average was ninety-six per cent. Today the rate of industrial activity is 120 per cent of 1923-25. In spite of the improvement now registered, it can be seen that there will be continued disbursements for relief and continued operation of the WPA projects. Wherefore, the problem sent being referred to as a member of that older is not by any means solved, and as Alfred M. Landon has so clearly pointed out, this great home tragedy is one demanding our most earnest attention. We do not yet have prosperity in spite of the fact that much of the industrial dack has been taken up, and we must all strive to bring it back as soon as possible.

Battle Looms on Trade Pacts

WORD from Washington reveals that a group of bi-partisan senators has organized to right the New Deal-Hull Reciprocal Trade Agreements program from both an economic and legal standpoint with the likelihood that the supreme court will be asked to pass upon the constitutionality of the act. Republican Governor William H. Vanderbilt, of Rhode Island, has taken the lead in the effort to sue for the court test with the possibility that he will be joined by the states of Minnesota and Kansas.

The crux of the argument is whether or not executive agreements such as trade agree- ME when they accuse the o. g. of criminal responments require Senate ratification, as is the case sibility for their very real troubles and menaces with treaties with foreign powers.

At the present time agreements are in operation with some twenty-one countries and negotiations are under way with sixteen more. The administration is expected to wage a vigorous fight And I wish the younger generation would try to refor continuance of the program, which President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull regard as the keystone of their "good neighbor" program.

Parents To Blame For Rowdyism In Sunday School

Is the Result of Relaxed Discipline in the Home

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D. My article, some while ago, on rowdyism in Sunday school has brought many responses agreeing

Lack of Discipline

Many who write of the problem also believe, as you and I do, that the prevailing bedlam at Sunday school reflects the growing lack of home discipline, especially in the more well-to-do areas.

Below is a description

as your articlea bout the rowdyism among children from eight to 12 years old in Sunday school.

'I started my little girl of eight --- about a year ago. As it was close to our home and as she was strange, I decided to stay that Sunday and see her home.

Many parents who don't want their children exposed to the all too prevalent rowdyism of Sunday school can shop around, as this mother did, and find a church and Sunday school where order does prevail. But such may be hard to find and they are growing scarcer.

We will have better Sunday schools when more of our more in telligent parents turn their backs against the prevailing philosophy of letting children do as they please, and train their offspring while they are young in the alphabet of citizenship, and regard for the rights

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Suppose the child of three, eating with the family, demands foods there not fit for him?

A. Calmly make clear to him the foods he cannot have, since "they are only for big people.' Make no further explanations.

Parents To Blame For Rowdyism In Sunday School

Is the Result of Relaxed Discipline in the Home

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

My article, some while ago, on rowdyism in Sunday school has brought many responses agreeing with it, but none disagreeing.

was leading the juniors, because they were "such roughnecks."

"Just a sample," he said, what we are up against from foolish Harry Faust Chosen parents who have relaxed on home discipline of their children

Lack of Discipline

Many who write of the problem regret, as you and I do, that Sunday also believe, as you and I do, that the prevailing bedlam at Sunday school reflects the growing lack of home discipline, especially in the more well-to-do areas

Below is a description by a mother of conditions in one choice suburban area about Chicago, which easily could be of a Sunday school areas which rank high economically -the very place where we should like to expect evidences that the children have been well brought up. well-disciplined at home and selfcontrolled away from home

"Dear Dr. Myers - I have never read an article that so 'hit the spot' as your articles bout the rowdyism among children from eight to 12 years old in Sunday school

'I started my little girl of eight about a year ago. As 't was strange, I decided to stay that Sunday and see her home. . . .

The boys and girls were in separate classes and the boys knocked each other down, yelled and played tag and chased each other all over the Sunday school room, Finally the young lady who was endeavoring to teach them said, with tears in her eyes, "Why do you boys come to Sunday school?' and they answered. 'We don't know- 'cause our mothers make us.

"This church is in a so-called nice neighborhood. You might expec such action from children of a sec . Now we have joined a church of another denomination My little girl today has a beautiful reverence for her church and God, something I feel she would never have gotten in the other atmos-

Many parents who don't want their children exposed to the all too prevalent rowdyism of Sunday school can shop around, as this mother did, and find a church and Sunday school where order does prevail. But such may be hard to find and they are growing scarcer.

We will have better Sunday schools when more of our more intelligent parents turn their backs against the prevailing philosophy of letting children do as they please, and train their offspring while they are young in the alphabet of citizenship, and regard for the rights

Q. Suppose the child of three, eating with the family, demands foods there not fit for him?

A. Calmly make clear to him the foods he cannot have, since "they are only for big people.' Make no further explanations.

Frostburg Man Severely Hurt In Hoffman Mine

Harry Sperry's Skull Is Fractured when Struck by Timber

Prostburg, Nov. 5-Harry Sperry Hill street, is a patient at the Miner's Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, received Friday evening while at work in the Hoffman mine of the Consolidation Coal Company

According to district mine inspecfor Clyde Rowe, Sperry with a number* of other mines laborers was engaged in placing a temporary stringer supported against the mine roof structure by wooden legs or props. While the men were working a mine trip approached and one of the car jumped the track, knocking the leg from beneath the string-Sperry who had stepped aside to allow the trip to pass was struck on the head as the stringer fled out of place. His condition, according to Hospital attendants, is regarded as critical.

Mr. Sperry, who is about fifty cears of age, resides with his wife and family on Hill street. He is the father of five children

Snow Covers Eight Counties in W. Va.

-A storm sweeping westward across the Alleghenies covered Eastern West Virginia today with snow ranging in depth to eight inches.

The State Road Commission reported the snow covered nine counties and that while "visibility is low traffic is getting through all right."

The heaviest snow was on Allegheny Front mountains. From Preston county eastward the snowfall ranged from two inches in the lowlands to the greater depth on the mountain tops and covered Mineral, Hampshire, Morgan, Berkeley, Jefferson, Hardy, Tucker and Randolph counties.

Road Commission said the snow began about 4 a. m, and continued until early afternoon.

Plows were called out to keep the highways clear. Flurries were reported in Monongalia county

Frostburg Man Severely Hurt In Hoffman Mine

Frostburg, Nov. 5-Harry Sperry Hill street, is a patient at the Miner's Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, received Friday evening while at work in the Hoffman mine of the Consolidation Coal Company.

According to district mine inspector Clyde Rowe, Sperry with a number* of other mines laborers was engaged in placing a temporary stringer supported against the mine roof structure by wooden legs or props. While the men were working a mine trip approached and one of the car jumped the track, knocking the leg from beneath the string-Sperry who had stepped aside to allow the trip to pass was struck on the head as the stringer fled out of place. His condition, according to Hospital attendants, is re-

Depths of 8-10 Inches Reported in Wake Of Unheralded Storm

Old Man Winter, who sent his snow storms for an early Thanksgiving Day visit last year, couldn't wait for even Mr. Roosevelt's Thanksgiving this year.

The storm sneaked in on the heels of mild weather, surprising Saturday night revelers, and continued through until Sunday afternoon. It was one of the earliest "whiteouts" in many years.

Several Inches Here

Several inches of snow covered Cumberland, but by noon a fine rain was falling, and the snow blanket soon was churned into a disagreeable slush on city streets and side-above-freezing temperature, the snow quickly disappeared in Cumberland. By nightfall, little or nothing remained in the city to recall Winter's unheralded visitation.

In Frostburg the snow piled up to the depth of half-a-foot or more, and stuck throughout the day.

Eight Inches on Big Savage On Big Savage mountain the snow was nearly eight inches deep, and the mountain-sides were turned into a strange wonderland, with snow plastered against the still-colored leaves on many trees.

Eight inches of snow was reported in Romney, W. Va., and roads in that section were exceptionally slippery, but most of the snow there melted during the day.
